QUALITY

Top Size bulbs are necessary to give best results under Pacific Coast conditions. In this catalog we offer only the highest quality obtainable in all the Spring Flowering Bulbs at prices which are consistent with the careful growing and selection of this extra quality.

Our organization in the states of California and Oregon permit us to quote prices postpaid to all points in California, Oregon and Washington. For orders outside of these three states, add 10% for shipments west of the Rocky Mountains; 20% for points farther east. We will refund any overpayments on account of postage. Quantity discounts are deducted from your order if in amounts of 500 bulbs or more.

SEMESAN TREATMENT FOR BULBS

Success may be increased by giving your bulbs a treatment with Semesan before planting. Being slowly soluble, this maintains an antiseptic zone around the planted bulb and prevents the attack of rots during cold and wet weather.

Semesan prices:

2-ounce tin	$.50
1-lb. tin	2.50
5-lb. tin	11.75

Full and detailed methods of treatment are sent with Semesan. Every garden lover should have a supply on hand. Semesan will increase success with all bulbs and seeds.

FERTILIZER FOR BULBS

Top-dressing your Spring Flowering Bulb garden during the growing season with animal or commercial fertilizer with generous water applications will produce longer and stronger stems and finer flowers. Send an order for Gaviota Fertilizer with your bulb order.

Gaviota prices:

3-lb. bag	$.25
10-lb. bag75
25-lb. bag	1.50
50-lb. bag	2.50
100-lb. bag	4.00

Gaviota Fertilizer has especially high value in plant food.

DAFFODILS—NARCISSUS

Varieties—The varieties here are but a few of the many hundreds available from the northern fields. We have carefully prepared this selection as representing full value for their cost and have tested their adaptability to gardens of the Pacific Coast. Write for prices on other kinds with which you may be familiar.

Some may seem extremely high priced, but they are real jewels and grow and increase each year. A single bulb of a fine variety will in a few years grow into a substantial beauty spot in the outstanding garden.

CULTURE

Our interest in your order goes beyond the shipping operation. . We are anxious that they shall not only arrive in your hands in the best of condition, but we wish them to be planted right. Your strict adherence to a few simple rules of proper planting and care should give you the greatest of joy and satisfaction in the results.

In cooler climates, daffodils should be planted on an average of six inches deep with a handful of sand placed in the bottom of each hole to insure root development and to supply drainage. Heavy soils should be lightened by spading in peat to a depth of ten inches. Never let manure come into contact with the bulbs, although it is helpful to mulch the top of the ground with well rotted cow manure and Gaviota Fertilizer after planting. We quote Gaviota prices on page two.

Daffodils will do well in either sun or partial shade in Northern California. In Southern California partial shade is preferable, and the bulbs should be planted at least eight inches deep. The ground should not be allowed to dry out after planting.

After flowering, the foliage must be left until thoroughly ripe; removing it before will jeopardize bloom the following year. If it becomes unsightly, it may be tied down and inter-planted ground covers will help to hide the foliage during the curing period. When thoroughly ripened, the tops may then either be cut off or the bulbs may be lifted and stored in a cool, well ventilated place until ready for replanting.

Daffodils left in the ground, however will multiply and the ordinary summer watering will not affect them. If left in the flower border, they should be lifted and separated after three years. At such times, the bulbs should dry after digging for about three weeks; then separate the loose side bulbs. However, you should understand that ruthless division of the clumps injures the root bases. Unless the main bulbs and off-shoots almost fall apart during the digging and handling, they should be replanted without separating. Daffodils which are used entirely for naturalizing effects should be left undisturbed indefinitely.

LET US PLAN YOUR SPRING FLOWERING GARDENS

Our flowering records are available and a postcard from you will bring a representative to answer your many questions of flowering seasons, color and type characteristics, etc.

As a general rule, the Polyanthus Narcissus are the first to flower, starting in December and followed first by the early Yellow Trumpets, then in order the Jonquils and Jonquil Hybrids, Poetaz, Incomparabilis, Leedsii and Late Trumpets, ending the season with the Barrii and Poeticus. The long flowering season of the Narcissus family extends from early December through April.

Most of these varieties are novelties and greatly limited in supply. Early orders will insure delivery.

The following prices are for No. 1 size double-nose bulbs, all of which should flower with two or more flower-stalks. Six bulbs furnished at the dozen rate; fifty bulbs at the one hundred rate.

TULIPS

In the past few years, tulip prices have been so greatly reduced that the average garden lover is no longer restricted to the comparatively few well-known varieties. We offer in this list a complete selection of the finest varieties available at medium prices.

We have carefully tested these and find them particularly adapted to Pacific Coast conditions.

We do not list the early tulips. We have found them disappointing on account of the very short stems. We make two exceptions, however; the Keizerskroon since its color creates a demand, and the General DeWet because in addition to its early flowering behavior, the stem is of fairly good length. However, try the Cottage variety, Gala Beauty, in place of the Keizerskroon.

We feel it is much less confusing to list tulips under their color classification than to separate them into the classes of Breeder, Darwin and Cottage varieties. Within the color groups you will find the varieties listed as they grade through the color changes.

As a general rule, the Darwins contain the bright, strong colored tulips, the Cottage are the pastel shades while the Breeders are the soft, darker shades of brown and orange colors.

TULIP CULTURE

While tulips grown in the full sun will give good results, it is best to plant them in partial shade. This is essentially true in Southern California and very warm sections. This will protect them against unexpected warm spells during the growing and flowering season and will produce longer stems, a longer blooming season, and prevent a scorching of the flowers.

Lighten heavy soil with peat moss, avoid manure except as a mulch and spread a little sand under the bulbs when planting.

Tulips succeed best when planted at a uniform depth of from four to five inches. This uniform planting depth is essential to insure all individuals of a given variety to bloom at the same time and to grow to a uniform height. This appearance is the essence of a perfect bed of tulips.

Care should be taken not to allow the ground to dry out at any time during the growing season. As the flowers fade, cut the blossoms directly below the flower at the top of the stem. This prevents the seed pod from forming to deplete the vitality of the bulb for the following season.

If the bed is to be used after the tulips flower for other plantings, lift the bulbs and heel them in loose soil out of the sun where the foliage will ripen slowly. The tulip bulbs which you purchase will be of the highest possible quality carefully grown by the world's finest producers and will give excellent results the first year. Following this first season's bloom, we suggest moving them to a cut-flower garden where they may remain in the ground indefinitely to be used for picking. Under Pacific Coast conditions they cannot be definitely depended on and your supply for effect should be renewed each year to give the maximum satisfaction. A few new tulips purchased each year obviously does not represent a great outlay of capital.

WATSONIAS

We can furnish a fine assortment of the New Hybrid Watsonias in rich shades of pinks, salmon, orange, lilac, etc. If interested, send for our special list. These new Hybrid Watsonias are very fine and should have a place in every garden. Our strong clumps are Oregon grown.

HARDY LILIES

Lily bulbs are ready during the Fall and early Winter. They should be out of the ground a minimum of time and you should send us your order in advance to send you the stock when dug, cured and ready for shipment.

Spring planting is also satisfactory if the bulbs have been kept in good condition. If you are re-vamping your lily beds in the Spring, let us hear from you and we may be able to furnish your requirements at that time.

It is important to plant lily bulbs at their proper depth. Some are stem-rooting and others root merely at the base. We specify the correct depth for planting in this folder.

Good drainage is necessary. The lily bed should be prepared to a depth of about two feet, providing a loose, friable mixture of loam, gravel, sand and leafmold with a bottom of stones and rocks. Care in preparation of the soil will be well repaid.

While lilies love the sun, they are greatly benefited by suitable ground covers to form a protective ground mulch. We recommend the following which will be found listed in our extensive list of Alpine and Succulent Rockery Plants. Send for this list.

Achilleas, Ajuga reptans, Betonica grandiflora, many of the Campanula species, the Dicentra spectabilis which forms a most delightful shade loving ground cover, the Fragaria, or trailing strawberries, Helleboris, or Christmas Rose, Incarvillea (Hardy Gloxinias) Polemoniums and Potentillas, Ranunculus repens (single and double) Trollius Hybrids and many of the Veronica Species.

Shrubs may also be planted advantageously for ground covers, among the most suitable being Abelias, Rhododendrons, many of the low growing Cotoneasters and Hypericum moserianum.

Prices for Hardy Lilies are quoted post-paid to all California points.

CALIFORNIA WILD FLOWER BULBS AND SEEDS

There are a few choice varieties of California Wild Flower Bulbs which have lengthy blooming season and are attractive enough to be welcome additions to the cultivated gardens. They should be more widely planted.

The bulbs are available in the Fall and Winter to early Spring. Send us your order at any time and we will hold it until the proper time for delivery. Many ask us if we gather our wild flower bulbs and plants to the detriment of our charming woodland spots. We grow all of these species under cultivation with the above-mentioned object of conserving our wild flowers.

CALOCHORTUS: These beautiful little cup-shaped Mariposa Tulips and globe-shaped Harebell flowers seem to prefer a heavy soil and do not like manure. We have seen them succeed best in heavy adobe ground, a characteristic for which many of us are grateful.

Blossoming with their most showy and beautifully colored flowers during April and May, Mariposa Tulips have no equal. They are most excellent for cutting for the home with their graceful stems and nodding flowers. We offer a wide assortment of colors and shades.

CULTURE OF OUR NATIVE BULBS AND PLANTS

CALOCHORTUS—GLOBE STRAINS—These pink, yellow and white Harebells love the shade and protection of our woodlands, but prefer dry soil during their dormant summer season. Plant about three inches deep in groups for effect.

CALOCHORTUS—MARIPOSA TULIP STRAINS—From our observation, these lovely flowers prefer a heavy soil with a minimum of moisture and the full sun. They will thrive in partial or full shade, but the tendency is toward weak stems, although they hold the flowers much longer.

Plant about three inches deep in groups for effect and it is important that they receive little moisture while dormant.

ERYTHRONIUMS—DOG TOOTH VIOLETS—These charming shade-loving plants should be planted in masses for effect. Partial shade is necessary and full shade makes them much happier. Plant about three inches deep in groups of twelve or more in any well-drained garden soil.

FRITILLARIA—While the Fritillaria will thrive in the sun, they quickly burn and fade and we recommend full or partial shade. Plant about three inches deep in any well-drained garden soil.

CAMASSIA—These are sun-loving plants and while the flower is not lasting, it is a beautiful shade of blue and effective for mass plantings. Plant four to five inches deep and about four inches apart either in the sun or shade and wet or dry soil.

CLINTONIA, DICENTRA, DODECATHEON AND TRILLIUMS—All prefer the shade and a constant moisture supply in well-drained soil. These are not bulbs, but plants and should be set with their crowns at the surface of the ground.

SPECIAL MIXTURE OF CALIFORNIA NATIVE SEEDS

Packages—25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00

A well balanced mixture of showy varieties to extend the flowering season from early spring to late summer.

TUBEROUS ROOTED BEGONIAS

Tuberous Rooted Begonias are one of our specialties. We import the finest of hybridized seed and grow our plants in the open fields to produce the hardiest bulbs.

Begonia hybrid types are Single, Double, Frilled, Crested, Lloydii (basket or trailing), Fimbriata (Carnation) and Fascination.

HOLLYHOCK BEGONIA (Begonia martiana grandiflora)—A tall mostly un-branching plant; the growth being quite characteristic of its name. Growing to a height of 18 to 24 inches, delightful soft pink single blossoms are borne in the leaf axils. Use for background planting in the Begonia bed. Bulbs $.50 each. $5.00 dozen.

Begonia color varieties are white, pink, rose, scarlet, crimson, yellow, salmon and orange.

Begonia bulbs are ready from January to May inclusive. The experienced gardener can start his bulbs in early February to produce the earliest of flowers in the spring. Prices of begonia bulbs; postpaid to all California points:

Jumbo Size—$.20 each. $2.00 dozen. $16.00 per 100.

Bedding Size—$.15 each. $1.50 dozen. $12.00 per 100.

After the danger of frost is over late in May, we offer seedling plants to give bloom in the garden from July to November inclusive. Prices; prepaid to all California points: $1.50 dozen. $10.00 per 100.

You may order bulbs and seedling plants in the above color and type assortments, but you must expect some color variation. The colors in the singles and frilled are uniform.

The double white, rose, scarlet (bright red), crimson (dark red) and yellow varieties are true, distinct shades.

The double pink varies from light flesh colors through the darker shades into salmon colors.

The double salmon varies from the pink through to the salmon and orange shades.

The double orange varies from the salmon through to the light and deep orange and orange-red shades.

The Crested, Fascination, Fimbriata, Narcissus and Lloydii varieties in bulbs and young seedling plants can be furnished in mixed colors only.

From July to November we offer large field plants in full bloom at $.40 each. $3.50 dozen. These may be ordered according to true, distinct shades such as peach, flesh, deep orange, etc.

For those who wish bulbs delivered in the spring in distinct shades within the color variety, we will stake the bulbs in the field during the blossoming season and deliver these tubers at 50% increase above the regular bulb prices. Pay us a visit and stake the color and type you particularly desire.

PLANTING AND CARE

In the spring the dormant tubers show pink swellings at the center of the crown. They should then be potted in rich loose soil, preferably leaf mold. Be sure the drainage is good and that the tuber is so placed that the top center is above the soil. Water sparingly until the first leaves form, increasing the moisture supply after that time as the plant develops. After they are well established they can be transplanted to the bed or boxes or grown on in the pots for house plants. Do not plant until this pink bud shows and do not cover the top of the tuber with soil. Too early or too deep planting may kill the tuber.

They thrive in partial shade—such as window boxes having a northern or eastern exposure where they do not get too much direct sunlight—under oak trees—or in partial shade in the garden. As house plants do not put them too close to a window as the direct sun through the glass might injure the plant.

In the late fall when the tops die down water should be withheld until the plant dries out. If desired the tubers can be lifted, shaken free from the soil, or left in pots, stored in a cool dry place, preferably a dark shelf, until planting time.

FOR CHRISTMAS—We put up attractive Christmas Gift Boxes of begonia tubers at our regular prices, mailed postpaid to all California points. No gift is more highly appreciated by the garden lover.

RUST-PROOF SNAPDRAGON SEED

In our opinion, very few will plant the old strains of Snapdragons any more. We have carefully tested these and find in addition to the elimination of the objectionable rusty foliage, the freedom of the plants from this vitality sapping fungus results in stronger and more highly colored flower spikes.

We offer the following varieties at $.25 per packet postpaid. Write for bulk prices.

SHASTA—Pure white with same type of flower and habit as the popular greenhouse forcing variety Ceylon Court. Has a very distinct base branching habit.

BRONZE SHADES—A great range of beautiful bronze colors. Striped, yellowish, red and dull orange shades of bronze; also deeper shades.

PINK SHADES—A very remarkable pink mixture from the light pinks through every conceivable tone into very deep rosy hues.

YELLOW—A very deep golden yellow. Flowers closely set on long spikes.

CHOICE MAXIMUM MIXTURE.

Plant seeds now for winter blooming. After October, we can supply strong plants in flats at $.50 dozen. $4.00 per 100. Delivered postpaid to all California points.
